ABSTRACTS

Beginning with the January, 1965, issue, The Ohio Journal of Science will begin publishing abstracts with all papers. Therefore, from now on, authors submitting manuscripts to the Journal should include an abstract with their paper.

The abstract should be a concise summary of the significant facts contained in the paper. It should be sufficient within itself in presenting the main conclusions of the paper, any new compound, species, or mineral, etc. described, and any new methods or procedures critical to the results presented in the paper. It should be brief and concise, not over 250 words and preferably shorter, but complete sentences should be used to promote comprehension and clarity and to avoid ambiguity. Words such as "are presented" or "is explained" should be avoided. Abstracts are not to contain illustrations, tables, references, or footnotes.
